SUPPORT TO STUDENTS

The institution supports research, monitoring, and evaluation of student affairs and services, and it uses the results to improve what it offers students. Research is encouraged at the student level as well. Students are guided in conducting studies, and their outputs are presented in forums and published, which shows that the research culture reaches the student body.

Students of the College of Business Development, Economics and Management (CBDEM), including the Junior Philippine Institute of Accountants (JPIA) USM Chapter, presented their research outputs at the 8th CBDEM In-House Review on May 9, 2025. Raisa Lidasan secured first place, and other JPIA members, including Charmaine Rosario, Alleona Jasper Senarillos, and Chrysler Cañag, took part in the review. At the 27th Gawad Parangal, Paula Dominique Garmino and Jeannie Rebuta received the award for Most Outstanding Research Paper (Social Science category), and Mabeth Alimao and Amerah Manaros were recognized for their in-house research participation (poster and paper presentation, Applied/Innovation category). Students also applied their skills to innovation, as shown by the JPIA team's third place in the IDEA CTRL: CBMS Innovation Challenge at the 2026 Komunikasyon, and by Audivance, the offline audit workspace the chapter developed and introduced to support the audit work of student organizations.

The institution also monitors and evaluates its student services regularly. [Describe the process: for example, the SAS Unit or the department conducts a student satisfaction survey each semester using an approved instrument, and the instruments are reviewed and revised each year.] The results are summarized in reports and used to improve services [give one or two specific actions, such as a new procedure, a schedule change, or a new service]. Required reports are filed and submitted to the CHED Regional Office on a regular basis [state the frequency and the latest submission date].

Taken together, the research outputs of students, the dissemination of those outputs in review forums and award programs, and the regular monitoring, evaluation, and reporting of services show that research results and evaluation findings are communicated and used to improve student affairs and services, which supports the outcome.
